NEWS OF THE VICINAGE.

John Walker was killed by falling slate near Pineville.

Frank Hahn has been appointed postmaster at Lincoln, Pulaski.

Two children were burned to death in Pulaski last week; one white and the other colored.

The supervisors raised the assessment of Pulaski $108,712, making the total $3,024,302.

Andrew Hasty killed a "red" rabbit, which had three ears, a few days ago.—Mt. Vernon Signal.

Gale Durham, of Somerset, was fined $5 for having possession of property where liquor was sold.

Col. I. Shelby Irvin and J. J. Embry have bought the Richmond fairgrounds and will convert them into stock pens.

Robert and Charles Marsee were indicted at London for killing W. B. Stapleton and their trials set for the 21st.

A witness at London dropped a pistol from his hip pocket as he arose from the chair and Judge Eversole sent him to jail.

Dr. W. L. Moore, of New York, was elected to succeed Dr. Mutchmore as a member of the board of trustees for Centre College.

I. Pitman, of Boyle, has taken the bankrupt law. His liabilities are $5,000 and his assets two life insurance policies of $1,000 each.

A Scotchman named Bowen had his head blown off and John Vogt and others were injured by the carelessness of dynamite near Birdeye in Whitley.

Provins' mine near Jellico, fell in imprisoning eight or 10 miners, who had to remain under the ground six or eight hours till the debris was cleared away.

A Harrodsburg Negro got swift justice last week. He broke into a dwelling Tuesday, was arrested Wednesday, indicted Thursday and tried. The trial lasted only 15 minutes and he got two years.

The kitchen range in the home of H. C. Thompson exploded, knocking every door off the hinges and severely injuring Mr. Thompson's mother. The London people thought an earthquake had come.

J. A. Rankin, of Clark county, committed suicide in a box car at the L. & N. depot at Richmond Saturday by cutting his throat. Life was not extinct when found, but he died a few minutes later. He refused to give a reason for the deed.

Mrs. Lou Moore, wife of the florist at the State College, was so badly burned at her home in Lexington that she died after a few hours of terrible suffering. She was Miss Mary Alloway, of Jessamine, and had been married only a short time.

Rev. Geo. W. Young says that there are people in Richmond who are so wedded to the place that they would not trade their property for a town lot in the city of the New Jerusalem, with taxes paid in advance for 10 years.—Jessamine Journal.

Mr. J. L. Bruce reports that at his house early this morning, it was exactly 20 degrees below zero.

Mr. Bruce has a record of the coldest days for the 50 years ending with 1892. The four coldest days in that time were:

January 10, 1856, 22 below.

January 19, 1857, 24 below.

January 1, 1864, 20 below.

January 5, 1884, 19 below.

In 35 out of 50 years the mark was below zero, in three years just at zero, and in the remainder close to it.—Advocate 10th.

H. P. Rhodes, formerly of Kentucky, committed suicide at Denver, and then Mrs. Olga Lavrenius, young Russian widow, understood to have been Rhodes' finance, shot and instantly killed her 10-year-old son and then sent a bullet through her own brain.

Left to mind his twin baby brothers, three-year-old James Hughes, at Reading, Pa., mixed up some medicine like he had seen his mother, and gave it to them. It was arsenic and laudanum, and the twins were dead in a few hours.

The postoffice department decides that Lexington is too small a post-office for a husband and wife to be employed in and has upheld Postmaster Elkin relieving Mrs. Warren and retaining her husband.

The court of appeals decides that gas and other companies have not the right to charge meter rent, and that persons who have paid it can recover all they have paid within the last five years.

Radford Pash has just been arrested at Louisville and taken to New Haven for alleged criminal assault on Miss Ella Metcalf, of that place, last September, at the point of a pistol.

Silvar Long fell from a car in Ohio and had his foot cut off. No one saw the accident and he crawled and dragged himself four miles in the intense cold to succor.

LANCASTER.

The mercury was 30 below zero at J. J. Walker's Monday morning.

Some of the sick are improving while others are becoming affected by the grip.

W. B. Moss, a brother-in-law of Col. David G. Colson, received a message Sunday that the colonel was wounded at Anniston.

This morning, Monday, is the coldest of the season, the mercury being from 20 to 24 below zero all over the city and rural districts will register below those figures as before.

The Lancaster Hotel Company has filed articles of incorporation and contracted with Ryan, of Lexington, for the erection of the building which has been mentioned before, and which will justly be the pride of our city, which richly deserves such an improvement.

Mr. Ryan has contracted with the Lancaster Planting Mills for 100,000 feet of lumber, and will begin work in time to pierce the colonel's cuff. As Colson was rising, with a pistol in his hand, McKay and Phelps, the provost officers, with the butts of their pistols, beat him over the head until he was insensible. Scott attempted to fire again, but was prevented by Wilhoit.

The provost officers excuse their action on the ground that had they not overpowered Colson he would have killed Scott, and deny that any friendship for Scott prompted them to beat the colonel so unmercifully. Colson's wound is painful, but is not likely fatal. Scott was arrested and admitted to bail. Both men had two pistols and many shots were fired.

The trouble between Scott and Colson seems to have begun immediately after the latter had gotten Gov. Bradley, whose nephew he is, to commission him a lieutenant. Colson claims that he proved inefficient and several efforts were made to get rid of him. He was tried for forging a pass, for drunkenness and finally a board of officers found him unfit to hold a commission; recommending a dishonorable dismissal. He went to Washington and with the assistance of Debow and others had the finding set aside, although Colson tried his best to have it enforced. Then Scott preferred charges of embezzlement of government funds against Colson, drunkenness on duty, inciting the men of the regiment to deeds of disorder and lawlessness against the citizens of Anniston and with failing to quell a disturbance in the camp in which officers of the regiment were engaged and in which firearms were freely used. Newspaper cards followed, in which Colson referred to Scott as a barroom beat, who gets the drinks by telling stories for them, and added that Lt. Blakeman, his associate, was of the same character. Scott responded by saying Colson was a Congressional nonentity and accusing him of maliciously falsifying. Both men are dead game and trouble was expected on their meeting.

Col. Colson is the well-known Congressman from the 11th district, and is absolutely without fear. Reports all agree that but for the provost guard he would never have stopped till he had killed Scott or been killed.

COL. COLSON SHOT.

Lt. ETHEL SCOTT WOUNDS HIM PAINFULLY, BUT NOT DANGEROUSLY.

The long existing bad feeling between Col. D. G. Colson and Lt. Ethelbert D. Scott, both of the 4th Regiment, culminated Saturday night at Anniston, Ala., when they met in a restaurant.

Scott and Lt. Blakeman were eating supper, when Colson and Maj. Wm. Collier and Lt. Wilhoit entered.

One report says that Blakeman started the row by cursing Colson, who walked over and pulled his ear. Scott and Colson had not exchanged a word, but at this juncture Scott drew his pistol from under the table and fired at Colson, who was four or five feet away.

Just as Scott fired Colson turned toward him, and the ball pierced his side, barely missing his intestines, but making an ugly wound nevertheless. As Colson fell Scott fired again, the second shot piercing the colonel's cuff. As Colson

DANVILLE.

The fire at the residence of Mr. John Stout was caused by the explosion of a lamp, but the flames were soon extinguished.

The cold weather is the topic of conversation and the plumbers are kept busy thawing frozen pipes and repairing burst ones.

D. Thomas Marshall, of the Foreign Mission Board of the Presbyterian church, is delivering interesting lectures to the students of the Seminary.

Miss Sallie Worrall and her literature class are very busy preparing for their entertainment this week. They will present "The Taming of the Shrew" at the opera house on the 21st.

Mr. J. S. Wells received a telegram announcing the death of his father, Dr. Wells, at Plant City, Fla. His many friends in this community sympathize very deeply with him in this great sorrow.

The Baptist church has engaged Rev. Copass, of Los Angeles, Cal., to fill the pulpit for one month. It will be difficult to find a minister to fill this pulpit acceptably, after having listened to the eloquent and delightful sermons of Dr. Lynch for 10 years.

When Miss Petitt, of Lexington, was in Danville last fall, she gave a most interesting account of her three months' work in the mountains of Kentucky and told how many of the most intelligent people had almost begged for something to read. She suggested that some member of the W. C. T. U. would gather up the magazines and papers that many would destroy and send them. This good work was begun at once and is continued by this noble band of women, and while box after box has been sent, the railroads furnishing free transportation, they are now asking for more.

"On the good we all may do

As our journey we pursue."

Mrs. S. P. Grant entertained at luncheon Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The table was beautifully decorated in pink carnations and ferns and the daintiest of luncheons served in courses. Those who accepted Mrs. Grant's gracious bidding were Mrs. Forestus Reid, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Chas. Cecil, Mrs. Mary Bowman, Mrs. Will Dunlap, Miss Susan Cromwell and Mrs. Geo. Bruce. Dr. Bogle and Mr. Guy Wiseman are in New York. Misses Hortense and Virginia Lee entertained the Whist Club Thursday evening. Miss Josephine Reid has issued invitations for the 17th, in honor of Miss Spencer, of Knoxville. Mrs. J. C. Bogle entertained Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 in honor of Mrs. Clarence Bell and Mrs. Harry Giovannoli. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boyle, of Lexington, have returned home after a brief visit to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cecil. Miss Florence Downton entertained in honor of Mrs. Clarence Lee Bell, of Hartford, Ind. Mrs. Pingrey, of New York, has returned home after a pleasant visit to the Misses Young. Mrs. John W. Redd entertained Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 in honor of Mrs. Hunter Kent, of Louisville. Mrs. Speer entertained the faculty of Caldwell College at the residence of Mrs. Downton. Walter Leddy is confined to his room with grip. Miss Minnie Atkins, of Lebanon, has returned home after a lengthy visit to Mrs. I. N. Buchanan. Miss Emma Currey, who was the guest of the Misses Lanier, has returned to Harrodsburg. Mrs. Sam McDowell spent a few days in Harrodsburg last week. Miss Clyde Burke entertained the Junior Social Club Friday evening. The Misses Field, twin daughters of Judge Field, of Louisville, have returned home. Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Rowland left Monday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Vass at Mobile, Ala. The Kappa Alphas gave a reception at their hall Saturday evening. Mrs. Rust and daughter, Miss Monks, are in Louisville. Mrs. John Stodghill continues dangerously ill.

Colson claims that he proved inefficient and several efforts were made to get rid of him. # THE INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., - FEB. 14, 1899

W. P. WALTON.

THE executive mansion at Frankfort caught fire from a grate Friday, but was apparently extinguished with the loss of the room it originated in and the roof. About noon the flames broke out again all over the mansion and the water pipes being frozen the firemen could do but little and the building was totally destroyed. Mrs. Bradley and Miss Christine were on their way to Lexington when the fire was discovered and Gov. Bradley was at the Capitol. The governor and other State officials worked like Trojans and succeeded in saving much of his personal property, but in a badly damaged condition. Though it might have been considered a beauty in the day and time of its building, 1798, the mansion was away out of date and badly situated. Thirty-two governors have occupied it and if all the stories of the many grand entertainments there of the distinguished men of the State could be told, it would form a most interesting page of history. The next Legislature will have to provide for a new mansion and it is hoped that a site will be selected that does not so closely overlook the penitentiary and other unpleasant surroundings. The State carried $9,500 insurance on the old building, which from first to last has probably cost in the neighborhood of a million of dollars, each governor spending many thousands on it. Gov. Bradley will reside at the Capital Hotel, and it is said that Mrs. Bradley and Miss Christine will return to their home at Lancaster, at least for the present.

MR. LENTZ, at Ohio Congressman, warmed McKinley's jacket for him the other day for practically rewarding Gen. Eagan for blackguarding Gen. Miles, as suspension with full pay amounted to that. Figured down into dollars and cents, Mr. Lentz showed how much the outrageous bestowal of clemency would cost the country, to say nothing of its bad effects on the army and its discipline. During the six years of suspension Eagan will have nothing to do, yet will draw from the treasury $5,500 per annum or $33,000 for the whole time. He will then have reached the age of retirement, 64, and will be retired at $4,125 a year. According to mortality tables a man at 64 has an expectancy of 11 years, which will make $45,375 if he should live that long, aggregating in all $78,375, as a reward for saying his commanding officer "lied in his heart, in his throat, in every pore," &c., when he charged that "embalmed beef was sent to the army on pretense of experiment." Gen. Miles is persona non grata with McKinley and the war department or the president would not have been guilty of so outrageous an act as he was in the matter of setting aside the court martial sentence against Eagan of total suspension with its accompanying disgrace.

AN exchange speaks of poor old Charley Moore as a "noted character." It means notorious of course. Moore sowed the wind and in the Columbus penitentiary is reaping the whirlwind. The lunatic asylum is the place for him however, but his friends should have had him placed in one before he scattered so many seeds of infidelity and obscenity to corrupt young minds. Moore is already sick of penitentiary life and has applied for a new trial, while his Lexington friends are going to petition the president for a pardon.

GEN. MILES is not a bit alarmed over the court of inquiry appointed to investigate his charges that embalmed beef was sent to his army by Commissary Gen. Eagan as he has mountains of evidence to back his charges. The general will also likely tell some other things that will further disgrace the war department and a sensational trial is expected.

IT is a great deal cheaper to buy a Legislature than to debase a whole State, so the Senate very quickly laid on the table a motion by Allen, of Nebraska, to submit a constitutional amendment providing for the election of U. S. Senators by a popular vote.

THE Louisville Dispatch may or may not have changed its policy, but of one thing there is no doubt and that is that Editor Stewart is making the editorial page scintillate with bright and enter-taining opinions and comment.

C. V. SHORT, who is now editing the Pineville Courier, is making a new sheet of it. Brer Siler, the former editor for a few days, silently stole away, without saying goodbye or be-ing to you.

SAM JONES' income is said to be $35,000 a year. No wonder he thinks that good times have come, when a man can make that much by simply playing the buffoon.

THE Louisville Dispatch's Valentines to celebrities, with the amusing cuts and "pomes," was the work of its gifted young artist, Elmer Burruss, and proved a decided hit.

IN double columns, double leads and in nearly six columns Mr. Watterson tells a most interesting story in Sunday's Courier-Journal of politics and matters in general at the National Capital, 40 or more years ago, in paying loving tribute to his life-long friend, John Russell Young, librarian of Congress, who recently died after a singularly brilliant life as editor, diplomat and author. Besides giving much unpublished history, Mr. Watterson takes occasion to refer to an incident, with which, we comparatively younger men of the quill, are familiar. When Mr. Young was appointed minister to China by President Arthur, after Mr. Watterson had used his illimitable powers of persuasion on him to that end, he was shocked to find that "the irrepressible young man" "of both wit and feeling, with the faculty of making himself exceedingly disagreeable when he tries," had written and printed a most abusive article of his friend. To disown it and reinforce it was a difficult task, but he succeeded in doing so. As an honorable and spirited man, Mr. Emmett G. Logan, the one referred to, promptly sent in his resignation, which Mr. Watterson declined to accept, after some sharp censure, the force of which was broken by well merited compliments. Logan was managing editor of the Courier-Journal at the time and for a long time was known among his journalistic brethren as "the irrepressible young man," Mr. Watterson having applied that term to him in trying to nullify the offending article.

THE Americans continue to have everything their own way in the Philippines and it seems but a question of a very short time before the leader of the insurgents, Aguinaldo, will be in custody. Caloocan, one of the strongest of his points, was taken with but slight loss, while his forces suffered heavily. The railroad and most of the rolling stock, from Manila to Malolos, the insurgents' capital, were taken making transportation of supplies easier, and opens up the way to the capture of that city also. The insurgents are disheartened, from the killing and capturing of several thousand of their men, and many have gone to their homes. For the week ending Sunday, the American loss was less than 300, with position everywhere made more effective.

IT is satisfactory to read that criminals get their dues in one State at least. At Wilmington, Del., Saturday, three men stood in the pillory for an hour and then with six others were taken to the whipping post and given from 10 to 40 lashes each. The 40-lashes man was convicted of murderous assault and when his punishment was through blood trickled down his naked back.

EDITOR R. NOAKS, of the Corbin News, is developing into the worst punster that ever happened, and we don't say this because he accuses us wrongfully of being buoed. If any body could work a trick on us a pretty girl could, but unfortunately none has attempted it.

THE whitewash commission say the conduct of the war was the best possible. This may do to tell the marines, but the volunteers can't be fooled that way.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The president in a message to Congress urges haste in the construction of a cable to Manila.

The Senate will vote to-day on the McHenry resolution as to the policy towards the Philippines and other territories.

In the last issue of the Advocate W. Vernon Richardson and James A. Slaughter announced themselves candidates for the Legislature.

Wm. Klar, who was nominated for the Legislature at Lexington, used to be a newsboy and later was a page in the House he will sit as a member.

Editor B. J. Newlon, of the Owenton Herald, said to a Cincinnati Enquirer man: "It is my prediction that Senator Goebel will be nominated for governor by the democrats of Kentucky, in which event he will be triumphantly elected."

The government doesn't mind expenses. When Gen. Otis acknowledged the dispatch advising him of the ratification of the peace treaty, he said his knowledge of its provisions was indefinite. The text of the treaty was cabled to him at a cost of $5,000.

John D. White has announced his candidacy for commissioner in the third railroad district. He has notified Chairman C. M. Barnett, of the State central committee, that he will insist on a primary when the time comes to make the nomination.

Senator E. C. Linney, one of the republicans who held out against the election of Hunter for U. S. Senator, was elected second assistant secretary of the Board of Equalization, composed principally of anti-Hunter men.

There are only nine announced candidates for the Legislature in Jessamine, with the election nine months off. They are B. L. Cook, C. A. Wilson, E. W. Harris, N. B. Baldwin, A. G. Wainscott, S. Evans, George Curd, G. L. Crutcher and Frank Horine.

We went to war with Spain to relieve the oppressed subjects of that country and now we have to kill them to keep them relieved. Kill-Kill-Kill! Dead Philippines will not bother us in the future by fighting for their freedom. How the Spaniards laugh.—Carlisle Mercury.

Editor John Mc. Melon, of the Ledger, wants to represent Calloway county again. He is for Blackburn, Gov. Bradley caught cold fighting the fire at the executive mansion and could not attend the meeting of the republican league at Dayton, O., where he was to speak on Abraham Lincoln.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

THE county bond sale occurs tomorrow.

THE mercury was 22 degrees below at Danville and not a pound of coal was for sale.

WHILE floating logs down Kentucky river, two raftsmen, Meade and Spurlock, were frozen to death.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICE.—Mr. Will Wearen tells us that J. H. Baughman & Co., have plenty of coal and have not advanced the price nor will they do so as an honorable and spirited man, Mr. Emmett G. Logan, the one referred to, promptly sent in his resignation, which Mr. Watterson declined to accept, after some sharp censure, the force of which was broken by well merited compliments. Logan was managing editor of the Courier-Journal at the time and for a long time was known among his journalistic brethren as "the irrepressible young man," Mr. Watterson having applied that term to him in trying to nullify the offending article.

FROZE TO DEATH.—Cornelius Bailey, who lives in O. J. Newland's house in the lower end of town, was found frozen to death 200 yards from his home this morning. He went hunting at 1 o'clock yesterday. From indications he must have accidentally shot himself as he had a severe wound in the neck. He was evidently trying to pike a rabbit out of a rail pile with his gun, when it went off, as blood in a puddle was found there and also his gun. He then tried to get home, taking his five rabbits with him, but froze after going about a fourth of a mile. He was a hard working man and leaves a wife and two children.

Hans Weil, a tramp, froze to death in a box car at Smith's Grove, on the L. & N.

The Warden Hotel and other buildings at Wickliffe, burned, entailing a loss of $40,000.

An avalanche swept down the mountain at Silver Plume, Col., and 24 Italian miners lost their lives.

Wm. Burgess, of Paducah, who tried to beat his brains out with a brick, without success, laid out in the cold and froze to death.

Luscious strawberries are being gathered around Orlando, Fla. At Pensacola, same State, the streets were blockaded with snow.

King McNamara, a wild Lexington youth, shot and perhaps fatally wounded Jacob S. Keller, because he protested against his walking on him.

It is said that 200,000 barrels of whisky changed hands in Louisville last week at 20 to 75c a gallon making $2,500,000. Brokers reaped a harvest.

Humphrey & Hughes' block, the finest in Van Wert, O., burned Saturday, with a total loss of $150,000. The post-office and its contents were also consumed.

Mrs. Nannie Stodghill, whose illness is noted in our Dauphin letter, died, aged 65. Mrs. Mary Jackson is also dead. She was the wife of C. Green Jackson.

Who ever heard of such a thing? The mercury went 8 degrees below at Atlanta and 15 below at Anniston. If any crops are left in the South, it will be a wonder.

Mrs. Ambrose Smith, of Lexington, died at Coffeyville, Mo., where she was visiting her son, G. I. Smith. The next day he died and the bodies were brought to Harrodsburg for burial.

With the thermometer at 20 degrees below zero and at 9 o'clock at night, one woman and two men were immersed by Rev. Wharton, of the Christian church, at Coal Run, O. A hole had to be cut in the ice.

Sales of 150 barrels of corn at $1.75, 350 shocks of fodder at 15c, a car load of cattle at 3½ and one of hogs at 3c are reported in the Harrodsburg Democrat.

A couple of Clark county men have bought 1,700 green hams in Cincinnati at 7c a pound and will cure them in the manner which has made the Blue Grass county hams so famous, and then put them on the market as such. As they expect to get 15c per lb. for them, they would seem to have a good thing.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., - FEB. 14, 1899

E. C. WALTON, BUSINESS MANAGER.

YOUR doctor knows that you have the right kind, the best quality and the exact quantity of medicine when you have your prescription filled at Penny's Drug Store.

PERSONAL AND SOCIETY GOSSIP.

MR. H. T. HARRIS is very ill of pleurisy.

W. F. BAKER, of the Louisville Post, is here with Agent J. W. Belden.

MRS. JOHN R. BROOKS has joined her husband in Atlanta, where they will make their home.

MR. AND MRS. J. RANDOLPH HARRIS, of Lancaster, spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cash.

DRS. W. B. O'BANNON and E. J. Brown went to Brodhead and Mt. Vernon, respectively, yesterday to see patients.

NEWS comes from Jackson that Mrs. J. E. Patrick, who was Miss Rose Richards, formerly of this place, has an other girl.

MR. J. C. MCKEE, one of London's best citizens, passed through to Wilmore Friday to attend the bedside of his brother, Rev. Joseph McKee.

MR. WILLIAM STUART, who has been at Joseph Price Infirmary a month for treatment of his eyes, returned to Crab Orchard yesterday, much improved.

MISS MAGGIE NOL, owing to the cold weather, has had to give up her position in the Blue Grass Grocery, and C. L. Dawes is now clerking there.

MR. AND MRS. W. S. MCGUIRE are back from Jackson county where they went to attend the burial of Mrs. H. J. Clark, the latter's mother. She was also the mother of Senator Clark.

JUNE H. REID received a letter Sunday from her mother, who is visiting her sons, C. B. and L. M. Reid, at New Orleans, saying that the thermometer was at the freezing point and that the people there were suffering.

MISS JESSIE POWELL, of Hustonville, writes us that W. O. Monnett, father of F. B. Monnett, who used to live in the West End, dropped dead of heart disease at Marion, O. He was well-known in the Hustonville section.

OF Mrs. Smith Davis Yowell, the Advocate says: As before observed, this earth holds but few better women than Mrs. Yowell, and the young gentleman who has been fortunate enough to win her will have to be a model husband to prove worthy of her. This, however, is already assured, as he stands high wherever he is known.

THE Lexington papers say that Miss Christine Bradley was lovely in classic silken draperies as she stood enfolded in the starry banner. Upon her golden tresses lightly rested a dainty liberty cap made after Gibson's conception. She posed as "The Republic" and rechristened the battleship Kentucky, in the Terpsichorean carnival. When she stood on the prow of the ship, draped in the national colors, she was the incarnation of womanly grace and dignity.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

48 STAMP pictures for $1 at Earp's gallery.

I HANDLE the B. F. Avery and Silver steel plows; also harness and saddles. W. A. Carson.

DORSEY SANDIDGE, a good colored girl, and a niece of Frank Atkins, is dead of consumption.

MR. J. E. BRUCE remembers a duller winter than yesterday. It was in 1862 when Bragg's army was here.

THE long distance telephone line will be closed from 1 to 4 this afternoon on account of Manager Eddy's death.

OUR stock of Canned Goods—Dried Fruits and eatables is full and complete. Call and see us. Warren & Shanks.

CHANGE.—Owing to the severe weather, I have postponed the sale of personalty to Mar. 2d. H. A. Pleasants, adm'r. G. C. Abraham.

THE Kentucky Colonels, the finest male quartette on the road will appear at Walton's Opera House Saturday night, 18th. Papers and press everywhere speak of them as a superb musical organization.

COAL.—J. H. Baughman & Co. sold at retail over 2,500 bushels of coal yesterday, supplying parties at Lancaster, Junction City, McKinney and one man who lived close to Danville. Pence & Perrin also had several teams engaged until late at night and filled scores of wagons from this and other counties.

FINE box stationary. New and up-to-date at Craig & Hocker's.

100 BUSHELS clover seed to sell at reduced price. B. K. Wearen & Son.

GOOD morning! Have you gotten any Valentines this 14th of February?

DANVILLE is $70,176 in debt, but she seems to have $97,994.57 to pay it with.

TO LOAN.—$1,500 on good, unencumbered real estate. Will loan only the whole amount. Apply at this office.

THE court of appeals modified on its face the opinion in the case of Givens vs. Flannery, but overruled the petition for rehearing.

GOOD LODGE.—Messrs. M. F. Elkin and J. F. Waters are back from Monticello where they organized a good Maccabee lodge of 26 members.

THERE is nothing short about The Globe, J. L. Frohman & Co., proprietors, Danville. They state it the Advocate that they will give a half dozen overcoats to boys, who prove that they are really needy.

28.—That's what J. W. James, the Crab Orchard distiller, says his 10-government thermometer registered Friday morning and it is the lowest we have heard of in the county. The same thermometer was 36 below.

IT was so cold Sunday night it killed the buzzards. Mr. Isaac Hamilton telephoned us yesterday that he found seven dead near his house. The old gentleman was 65 years old Sunday and says this frigid snap lays any that he ever knew in the shade.

THE Louisville Store people are going to add another store to their already long list soon, and Mr. Max Salinger has made a tour of the State in search of a location. He was favorably impressed with London and may give that town a "Louisville Store."

TO THE PEN.—Deputy Sheriff J. J. Wood, of Rockcastle, passed down to Frankfort Saturday with Greeley Layer and George Derben, who got 2 and 2½ years, respectively, at the special term of court at Mt. Vernon. Layer killed Jack Rigsby and Derben shot W. H. Redmon.

FOR once the people, who had no especial business here, showed their good sense by not coming to court. The crowd yesterday was smaller than the average Saturday afternoon. There wasn't a foot of stock on the market either, that we saw, and business was as dead as a door nail.

CLOTHES BURNED.—Bourne VanArsdale had the misfortune to have his Sunday suit ruined by fire Sunday morning. He had placed the clothes on a chair near the fire so as to get them warm before getting in them, but the chair toppled over and they got entirely too warm for anything.

HOCKER.—Mr. J. Waggon Hocker has received notice of the death of his uncle, Larkin Hocker, of Knob Noster, Mo. He was a brother of the late W. H. H. Hocker, but moved from this county some 50 years ago. He was 88 years old and his wife had predeceased him to the grave a number of years.

STATE GUARDS.—Of the new second regiment, it has been decided, says a dispatch, that Lexington is to have three companies, while the remaining nine companies will be located one each at Covington, Newport, Frankfort, Pewee Valley, Barbourville, Somerset, Stanford, Williamsburg and Ashland.

LT. Rowan Saufley, of this office, was offered the captaincy of the company to be raised here, and he has made an effort to get the requisite number of men, but finds that the boys are not anxious to become parlor or any other kind of soldiers.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL, published yesterday morning, came slowly in this afternoon heavy with frost, looking almost as old as the editor, and I don't mean Ed, either.—Dr. Alcorn in Danville Advocate. Its youthful appearance must have been the subject of general remark and the promise of living to the ripe old age attained by the doctor commented upon. When it shall have become so old, the editor will be satisfied to draw its drapery about it and lay it down to pleasant dreams of having broken the record for newspaper existence.

THE Harrodsburg Democrat tells a good story on Lt. Jim Saufley. He fell in love with a Porto Rican beauty and to show his affection, decided to give her a Christmas present. A puff box was suggested as the proper thing and he went to a store kept by a Spaniard to get one. As he could not make the man understand what he wanted by talking he tried to do so with signs, by going before a looking glass and tapping his fingers on his face as he supposed a girl would do with the powder in the box. A smile that betokened his understanding lit up the Spaniard's face and he proceeded to wrap up a package. Jim was much pleased at his effort and soon had the present delivered to his sweetheart. His chagrin can be imagined when she returned it with indignation and he found that he had sent her a box of soap. The engagement was doubtless broken off and the lieutenant will hardly come home with a wife.

NOW is the time to buy clover seed. Come to us. J. H. Baughman & Co.

A GERMAN, who is not in the habit of getting too much "red eye," would have frozen Saturday night, but for the kindness of Joe H. White and Samuel W. Menefee, who took him to the latter's home and thawed him out. He had fallen from his wagon and was nearly frozen when found.

EDDY.—Glenn Eddy, who put up the telephone line between this place and Danville, died Sunday morning at that place after protracted illness. He was 29 years old and left a wife, who was a Miss Gray, but no children. Mr. Eddy was a son of Rev. L. Eddy, one of the original telephone men in the State. His funeral will occur at the Methodist church at 2 P. M. today.

GAVE IT UP.—John C. Gooch has given up the mail line between here and Kingsville and J. W. Belden, who took the original contract, is having it carried again. His brothers, Nath and Jeff, take it time about this cold weather, and yesterday the former took it in a sleigh. One of Mr. Gooch's reasons, so Mr. Belden tells us, was that J. G. Martin, from whom he bought the contract, refused to give up certain papers he held.

WELLS.—Mr. J. S. Wells, of Danville, is called upon to mourn the death of his excellent father, Dr. R. Wells, who died at Tampa, Fla., last week, aged 65. He had been sick for some time and Mr. Wells paid him a visit. His condition took a turn for the better and there was promise of recovery, but the end came when least expected, so sudden that Mr. Wells could not reach the scene even in time to look upon the features cold in death. Dr. Wells was a practicing physician of high standing, both professionally and as a man. A wife and a daughter, Mrs. C. C. Carlton, are the other members of the family who survive.

HOW'S THIS FOR COLD?—R. G. Denny tells us that while Capt. B. F. Powell was getting ice Thursday it was necessary for the wagon to stand for a short while in the water, which came up to the hubs. After making a trip or two the wheels became tightly locked and investigation showed that the axles were frozen to the wheels so tightly that the horses could not pull it and the captain was compelled to get another wagon in its place. This is no joke and Mr. Denny can produce good proof if any one doubts his word. The ice which was being gathered from a creek was about six inches, but that on ponds was 10 to 12 in thickness.

DIDN'T DEFAULT.—County Clerk G. B. Cooper in response to inquiries from the Daily Bond Buyer, a New York financial paper, writes that the county never defaulted on its principal or interest, except to suspend the payment of interest on $8,200 worth of bonds for 60 days. He adds that the legality of its bonds has never been questioned, and that there is no litigation affecting bonds pending. He also sends the following financial data: Bonded debt (including this issue) $79,000; sinking fund, none; assessed valuation, $6,000,000; actual valuation (estimated) $8,000,000; tax rate per $1,000, $2.50; population (estimated) 18,000.

PETTUS.—Mrs. J. S. Pettus, who was a daughter of H. Green Cummings, and a sister of James F. Cummins, of this place, died at her home near Preachersville Sunday, aged 27. Consumption was the trouble and she had been confined to her bed for a long time. Besides a husband, three little girls, the youngest but three-years-old, are left to mourn a devoted wife and mother. Mrs. Pettus had been a member of the Baptist church since a girl and was a splendid woman in every way. After funeral services at the home of Mr. Pettus' father, J. F. Pettus, yesterday, by Rev. W. T. B. White, the remains were laid away in the family burying ground.

BROADDUS.—Of the grip after 33 hours of excruciating illness, congestion of the brain having intervened, Prof. George W. Broaddus, teacher and lawyer, died at his home at Platte City, Mo., and was buried before his sister, Mrs. Robert McAlister, received the news. He married a Missouri lady, who had never visited Kentucky, four years ago, and she writes informing Mrs. McAlister, whom she has never seen, of the death: "You will know how dear he was to me, when I say that standing on the verge of my past happiness, looking forward to the dreary road that stretches out before me, I do not think the four years of perfect bliss that he gave me, dearly bought at the expense of a life time of lonely misery. A kinder, better and more loving husband never went away and left a wife desolate." Speaking of him, a local paper says: "Prof. Broaddus was a member of the Baptist church, a Mason, a well-educated man, founder of the Camden Point Military Institute, a noble man who deserved and held the esteem of all who knew him. He carried $4,000 life insurance." Deceased was a graduate of Centre College and afterwards was admitted to the bar. He married Miss Annie Todd, but they had no children. Mrs. McAlister is heart-broken over the loss of her only brother, and friends here send sincerest sympathy.

THE Kentucky Colonels, the finest male quartette on the road will appear at Walton's Opera House Saturday night, 18th. Papers and press everywhere speak of them as a superb musical organization.

COAL.—J. H. Baughman & Co. sold at retail over 2,500 bushels of coal yesterday, supplying parties at Lancaster, Junction City, McKinney and one man who lived close to Danville. Pence & Perrin also had several teams engaged until late at night and filled scores of wagons from this and other counties.

DEATH.—Josh Crabtree, who fell from his horse while returning from town last court day, died of his injuries Sunday, aged about 80. He was buried at John Skidmore's yesterday.

COLLISION.—Freight trains Nos. 35 and 38 collided a mile south of East Bernstadt at 3:30 Saturday morning, causing a loss estimated at about $2,000 and probably fatally injuring Brakeman Reuben Thompson, of Lebanon Junction, who was riding in the engine of No. 35. He jumped before the trains met and the wreck piled upon him, hurting him about the head and injuring him internally. It took the crew an hour to get him out of the debris. Fireman Bowles, of the same train, was slightly injured. The trains met on a curve and both were running fast. The fault was with Conductor Nuchols and Engineer Young, of No. 38, who overlooked a meeting order.

EDDY.—Glenn Eddy, who put up the telephone line between this place and Danville, died Sunday morning at that place after protracted illness. He was 29 years old and left a wife, who was a Miss Gray, but no children. Mr. Eddy was a son of Rev. L. Eddy, one of the original telephone men in the State.
